Hot Milk

directed by Rebecca Lenkiewicz

Filming Locations: Region of Attica

Co-Producer: Heretic

THE BENEFITS OF

HELLENIC FILM &

AUDIOVISUAL CENTER

AND THE GREEK

CASH REBATE

WERE IMMENSE

“I could not imagine filming Hot Milk anywhere else but in Greece. It became absolutely intrinsic to the fabric of the film with its incredible sea, the clear waters and the fantastic shapes along the shore. The landscape was what I expected in that it was epic and beautiful. But the various locations and contrasts of urban and countryside was wonderfully surprising with endless possibilities. Heretic are incredible producers, dynamic, knowledgeable and fantastic in every sense from the first chapter in scouting locations to every aspect of the shoot itself. Giorgos Karnavas was absolutely key in helping to get the film made and was brilliant from day one. We felt very held and inspired by the whole team. The crew were incredible and worked with forensic detail and amazing energy. The shoot near Athens was incredible from day one to the wrap. Greece is the most incredible place to film in the world, in my book. As a sidebar I have never eaten so well or swam so well or had such good company around an outside table in a working lunchtime”.

REBECCA LENKIEWICZ
Screenwriter and Director

“For the shooting of Hot Milk we explored many territories and production companies before settling on Heretic in Greece and we absolutely made the best possible choice. We could not have made it without the help and support of Giorgos Karnavas and his wonderful team at Heretic.

With the backing of the Hellenic Film Commission, we scouted several times and were able to construct a unique jigsaw puzzle of locations that gave the film its very special character. The range of possibilities in the region from natural features - caves, desert, stunning beaches and mountains - to varied architectural styles, worked brilliantly for ‘Hot Milk’.

With truly independent feature films harder than ever to finance, the benefits of Hellenic Film & Audiovisual Center and the Greek cash rebate were immense to ‘Hot Milk’.

It was easy to bond with the Greek crew, most of whom spoke excellent English. The commitment and creative passion was striking. The conscientious work ethic was impressive too. Our location manager, Aris Maleas, went above and beyond in showing us places that fitted the script and Rebecca’s vision.

Filming in Greece and with Heretic is a unique and very special experience and one that lives on indelibly in every frame of our film, ‘Hot Milk’”.

The Return

directed by Uberto Pasolini

Filming Locations: Corfu, Peloponnese

Co-Producer: Heretic

Directed by Uberto Pasolini, the movie delves into the timeless tale of Odysseus' journey home, marking the first international production centered on the Odyssey in several decades.

The Greek island of Corfu in the Ionian Sea serves as the stunning backdrop for The Return, a film featuring acclaimed actors Ralph Fiennes and Juliette Binoche. A reimagining of Homer's The Odyssey, the movie follows Fiennes as Odysseus, who returns to Ithaca after two decades at sea.

The Hellenic Film Commission has supported the project from the very beginning, providing funding through the location scouting support of the HFC and, later on, smoothed the way for a May 2023 shoot of Uberto Pasolini's project.

The Italy-Greece-UK-France coproduction filmed for four weeks on location on the island of Corfu and on mainland

Greece before moving to Italy for six weeks.

The film showcases Corfu's carefully selected and impressive locations, which add a layer of authenticity to the narrative. The shooting in Corfu took place in summer 2023 with the film crew making the most of the island's landscapes and cultural heritage. The movie succeeded to bring the ancient epic to life while infusing it with a contemporary perspective, allowing audiences to embark on a captivating cinematic journey. Other than Corfu, where the production takes place in the Angelokastro castle among other locations, Pasolini also shot at Chlemoutsis Castle in the Peloponnese. This impressive medieval castle, built by the Franks in 1220 in the northern part of the Ilia region, has a breathtaking view to the plain of Elis and the Ionian Sea.

Prepping a big-budget adventure in Greece, Pasolini says is “fun, stimulating and challenging, looking for a visual language far removed from the standard image of the classic Greek world. It was important the action always feels like it is taking place on an island, looking west to an empty sea.”

Producer James Clayton says the Greek part shot first “for reasons of light and also economy, and trying to get it done before the high tourist season kicks in, because it's all on location”.

Clayton praises the Hellenic Film Commission and the Ionian Film Office. “We also lucked out with our choice of Greek co-producer. I cannot speak highly enough of Heretic.”

The Greek production company Heretic, whose past achievements include winning a Palme d'Or award at the Cannes Film Festival in 2022, has taken on the responsibility of co-producing “The Return” that had its world premiere in Toronto International Film Festival.

The Triangle of Sadness

directed by Ruben Östlund

Filming Locations: Evia island (Hiliadou) and the Peloponnese (Katakolo)

Co-Producer: Heretic

“The shooting was fantastic and I’m really not exaggerating. For me, Greece has been one of these experiences that makes me love filmmaking even more. The crew were experienced and engaged. The locals were friendly and made anything we asked for possible. The locations in Hiliadou, Evia are completely unique. We were lucky with the weather and we were so, so lucky with the covid craziness. To manage the shoot in these times, with a material that I’m more than satisfied with really doubles my pleasure. A big thanks to Heretic and the Hellenic Film Commission”.

RUBEN ÖSTLUND,
Director

“First of all, the Greek cash rebate had just been announced at the time and our competent and trustworthy Greek co-producers from Heretic Productions Company (I have known Giorgos Karnavas for over ten years) made us think about it. Also, of course, we found that Evia and Chilliadou beach were a bit different than the “usual” Greece we had known until that point, the Greece of the more touristic Islands.

We liked the green, the woods, the high mountains, the sea and the stony beaches. It felt like an “unknown and secret place” to us and it fit perfectly to the story of the film”.

Glass Onion: A Knives Out Mystery

directed by Rian Johnson

Filming Locations: Spetses, Peloponnese

Services: Faliro House Productions

In Rian Johnson's "Glass Onion: A Knives Out Mystery," viewers are treated to a change of scenery as detective Benoit Blanc, portrayed by Daniel Craig, finds himself in Greece.

The majority of the film was shot on the Argolis Gulf in the Greek Peloponnese and mainly in the Amanzoe resort at Porto Heli.

The movie opens with scenes on the hotel's private beach, known locally as Korakia beach, which boasts a nearby islet, adding to the location's allure.

Some scenes were shot on the Greek island of Spetses, known for its charm and beauty. Specifically, the sun-soaked scene featuring the characters waiting for their yacht was filmed at the picturesque port of Dapia on Spetses' northern coast.

Throughout the film, keep an eye out for scenes set in a small harbor where leisure boats dock next to Poseidonion Square. It is here that the characters anxiously await the departure of their luxury yacht, setting the stage for the unfolding drama.

These stunning Greek locations provide a rich and diverse backdrop for "Glass Onion: A Knives Out Mystery," offering viewers a unique visual experience that complements the intriguing plot.

Crimes of the Future

directed by David Cronenberg

Filming Locations: Athens

Co-Producer: Argonaut Productions S.A.

“When I first wrote the screenplay for Crimes of The Future two decades ago, its location was ambiguous. But as the film came to fruition, we began exploring the opportunity to shoot in Greece. Looking at the unique buildings and exteriors in and around Athens, the incredible textures of an ancient city, the hypnotic presence of an ancient sea, my vision for the film suddenly coalesced. I fully embraced the gifts that Athens was presenting to me, and now it seems the film could not have come together anywhere else. And among those Athenian gifts were the passionate and diligent Greek cast and crew, who were a pleasure to work with. They went over and above to make us feel welcomed, and their hard work contributed to every frame of the final picture”.

DAVID CRONENBERG
Director

“Greek technicians and crew are of very high standard. We had a wonderful mix of Canadians and Greeks in the team! It was a great experience for all of our crew and I believe the Greek crew enjoyed the experience as well”.

Haunted Heart directed by Oscar Winner Fernando Trueba is a romantic thriller starring Matt Dillon, Aida Folch and Juan Pablo Urrego, produced by Spanish-Colombian production. The film supposedly takes place on a picturesque Greek island where secrets and passion mix in an intriguing and fascinating way. The movie was filmed in the charming Trikeri, a beautiful small and scenic Greek town at the westernmost point of the hook-like Pelion Peninsula on the Pagasetic Gulf. It is in the eastern part of the Greek mainland. The actual town of Trikeri is at the top of a hill overlooking the sea; however, it has a port village, Agia Kyriaki, that serves as its port entrance.

“I had the greatest time shooting on Crete. The community of Malia really became part of the film. The Greek crew were amazing, flexible and gave their all to the project. I made friends for life! To be honest I only want to shoot in Greece now.”

GREECE GIVES BEAUTY

TO THE TRAGIC STORY.

IT GIVES THIS

STORY A HEARTBEAT

OF HOPE

“Greece is so geographically rich that it perfectly hosted a story that needed to express the non-stop journey with a perpetual change in landscape, from mountains and dramatic canyons, through rivers, to a dense urban jungle. It’s a country that also makes it easy to see the beauty in the backdrop. You see how gorgeous the countryside is, like the Vikos Gorge and these towns, the mountains of Tsepevolos. Being able to put these characters in that sort of space, I think, in a film like this, it just makes it more dimensional. It gives beauty to the tragic story. It almost gives this story a heartbeat of hope, even within the most dark, dire, frantic, and desperate situations”.

directed by Michael Winterbottom

Filming Locations: Ancient Agora/Athens, Delphi, Epidaurus, Hydra island, Caves of Diros, Pylos, Limeni, Patra, Ancient Stagira, Lesvos island, Ithaka island, Chalkidiki, Pelion, Kavala

Services: Fixer in Greece

“We discussed where we would go after Spain and Italy and Greece came up because of the obvious very rich Greek mythology and philosophy.

But, also because of modern politics there’s another dynamic now. In Greece we want to look at Democracy, Greek mythology, Greek philosophy, the politics of modern Greece -which is interesting in regards to Europe -, and also Britain’s relationship to Europe.

We ask big questions, but also the simple questions in life in relation to the big questions.

And we eat real food in the restaurants, from very high-end menu to simple restaurants; it’s an exploration of the culinary side of Greece”.

STEVE COOGAN, Lead Actor

“When shooting abroad we want to find people who are accommodating. Filming is something unusual, it's not a normal thing. You are telling a story but your requests are often not the normal requests the public or the tourists would make.

Sometimes the things you would be asking for might be breaking the rules, so we need people to be pragmatic and exercise a kind of flexibility. And we have found this in Greece.

The experience of shooting GREED in Greece has been very good, all people on Mykonos have been friendly and cooperative, supportive, flexible, accommodating. The hotel staff are like family now”.

IT WAS

A PLEASURE AND

A FULL THROTTLE

EXPERIENCE

“Shooting “Mediterráneo” in Greece was the first and last option to make this movie come true. I needed the environment, the beaches, the language, the faces, the soul of the Greek day by day reality. And it was a pleasure and a full throttle experience. It was a very complex process, with a lot of extras, refugees, and in a middle of a world pandemic (and some hurricanes). But in Greece I felt secure.”

MARCEL BARRENA, Director

“Mediterráneo was a challenge for everyone involved: a film with many exteriors, lots of action on the sea and a mixed cast and crew from Spain and Greece. The interpersonal understanding and harmony on the team was peak. The technical level that we found corresponds perfectly to European standards and the infinite variety of landscapes and locations that Greece offers was key for us to be able to adapt and successfully deal with changes in weather patterns».

Services: Faliro House Productions

“It has been an incredible experience to film THE LITTLE DRUMMER GIRL in the very locations described in John le Carré’s book. The immense privilege of shooting at such historically and culturally important places such as the Acropolis or Temple of Poseidon cannot be understated. Greece, as the birthplace of Western drama, offers filmmakers a canvas of unique resonance and, for me, it is the perfect place to tell the story of Charlie (Pugh)”.

PARK CHAN-WOOK, Director

“The variety and scope of filming locations available in Greece has made it the perfect place in which to bring THE LITTLE DRUMMER GIRL to life. We were able to shoot not only extraordinary scenes set in Greece, but scenes set in the Lebanon, Israel, Yugoslavia (as it then was) and Rome as well. The stunning locations we were able to choose would have justified coming to Greece under almost any circumstances, but on top of that, the generous support of numerous arms of government, and the highly-talented crew and support team at our wonderful partners Faliro House, has made the shoot one to remember and repeat”.

It was released on November 20, 2017 [just ahead of the film] and has had more than 700 million views by now. The director [Ali Abbas Zafar] made a request to shoot the number among architectural ruins.

But that’s not easy, because it’s tough to find somewhere where, (a), you can get permission and, (b), there aren’t holiday-makers wandering all over the location. It was Christos Alex Giotis at the production-services company Film Greece who suggested the island of Naxos. The shoot went very well so I wouldn’t be surprised if Greece benefits from word-of-mouth across India.”

HELLENIC FILM & AUDIOVISUAL CENTER FUNDING PROGRAMS

The Hellenic Film & Audiovisual Center provides several public funding programs aiming at the protection, support and development of film production in Greece. The Hellenic Film & Audiovisual Center funds fiction, documentary and animation projects, both feature and shorts, for established and upcoming filmmakers. Foreign productions can benefit by the Minority Program, but also by the Location Scouting Support Program of the Hellenic Film Commission.

Minority Coproduction Program

The Minority Coproduction Program provides funding for projects (fiction, documentaries and animation, with a minimum duration of 70min.) originating outside Greece, but with a Greek minority co-producer and Greek participation in either cast, crew, labs and/or shooting in Greece. Eligible for this program are foreign projects that have secured 50% or more of their financing, including state/public funding or TV finance.

The program refers to two (2) distinct categories:

- a) International co-productions originating from countries which are member states of the Council of Europe signatory of the European Convention on Cinematographic Co-production or states with which Greece has signed a transnational treaty (Canada, China, France, Israel) or will conclude one in the future. In the bilateral co-productions, the Greek co-producer must participate with at least 20% and in the multilateral co-productions with at least 10%. a) The Greek Parliament has ratified the revised Council of Europe Convention on Cinematographic Co-Production in January 2022. According to the changes introduced. For multilaterals, the maximum participation is now 80% and the minimum participation is 5%. For bilateral co-productions, the new maximum and minimum participations are 90% and 10% respectively. However, these new percentages apply ONLY to co-productions where ALL of the countries participating in the co-production have signed and ratified the revised convention.

- b) International co-productions originating from countries which have not signed the European Convention on Cinematographic Co-production and with which Greece has not signed a transnational treaty.

In both categories, producers can apply either for a grant (up to 30.000€) or for financing in exchange for exploitation rights (up to 100.000€).

Location Scouting Support Program

Applications open year-round

The Location Scouting Support Program is designed for feature films and documentaries, with a minimum duration of 70 min., as well as TV drama series and TV documentaries of foreign initiative that are interested in conducting preliminary location scouting in our country. Eligible to apply for the program are Greek co-producers (sole proprietorship or legal entity) or Greek production companies (sole proprietorship or legal entity) which are active and operate in order to produce audiovisual works as long as they have the corresponding taxation code and they are contracted with the foreign production company for conducting the location scouting.

Eligible projects:

1. International projects, the scripts of which could be shot in Greece, with a Greek co-producer as a minority partner
2. International projects, the scripts of which could be shot in Greece, without a Greek co-producer as a minority partner but with the commitment of collaborating, during the location scouting, with a Greek production company (sole proprietorship or legal entity) that is active and operates in order to produce audiovisual works as long as it has the corresponding taxation code.

For both eligible categories projects, the prerequisites are:

- a) Minimum shooting days in Greece:
 - fifteen (15) days for fiction feature films and TV drama series
 - seven (7) days for documentaries and TV documentaries
- b) Minimum estimated expenses to be incurred in Greece in case the project gets produced in the country: 50.000 euro

The maximum amount of the subsidy for the location scouting is set up to 10.000 euro.

To this end, it supports a) the Development of international co-productions and b) the Production of short films. Since 2003 SEE CINEMA NETWORK has supported more than 115 international co-productions.

Greece is a signatory of the 1992 European Convention on Cinematographic Co-production and the Greek Parliament has proceeded to the ratification of the Revised Convention of Council of Europe on Cinematographic Co-Production in January 2022. Greece has also bilateral co-production agreements with Canada, France, Israel and China. It is a member of the European co-production fund EURIMAGES and the EU Creative Europe Program / MEDIA sub-program.

40% CASH REBATE IN GREECE

The implementation of the cash rebate program was a decisive step towards attracting investment in the audiovisual sector in Greece. Law 5105/2024 introduces among others a new support scheme under the name Cash Rebate Greece-CRGR that concerns the production of audiovisual works in Greece and envisions three (3) distinct aid schemes, as follows: (a) CRGR- Film and TV; (b) CRGR- Animate; and (c) CRGR- Video Game Development

The camera lens can capture more shades of blue in Greece than anywhere else in the world. With its stunning locations and backdrops, and its amazing Mediterranean climate with plenty of sunshine throughout the entire year, Greece offers far more than a unique and physical décor.

As the birthplace of western drama, a country with an incredible cultural heritage, Greece is blessed with thousands of archaeological sites and monuments, many of which are included in the World Heritage List of UNESCO. The Acropolis, the cradle of democracy in the west, unquestionably stands out.

From classical Athens and the mountainous hinterland to the gems of the Aegean and Ionian Sea, the whole of Greece provides a vast range of landscapes: picturesque traditional villages, breathtaking beaches, forests, gorges, snow-capped mountains, even volcanoes! Plus, architecture that spans the millennia with examples from different eras; historical landmarks with ancient temples and ancient theatres, fortified Byzantine cities, monasteries and medieval fortresses, neoclassical mansions and sophisticated lofts in big cities.

Athens is a multi-facet capital city privileged by its proximity to the Attica serpentine coast line. Thessaloniki, the second largest city in Greece facing Thermaikos Gulf, boasts twenty-three centuries of fascinating history in its architecture. The choices in style and character among the thousands of islands and islets, out of which 227 are inhabited, are innumerable; from the spectacular medieval old town of Rhodes, where the Palace of the Grand Master of the Knights stands out as a gem of Gothic architecture in Greece, and the Minoan palace of Knossos in Crete, the biggest island in Greece with amazing landscapes and unique culture, to the Fjord-shaped beaches and underwater caves of Paxi in the Ionian Sea.

Nestled in south-eastern Europe at the southern end of the Balkan peninsula, within a few hours of every European capital, Greece offers a modernized transportation infrastructure.

With 2500 Km of motorways, over forty (40) ports and tens of marinas, fifteen (15) international airports and twenty-seven (27) national and public use airports, from Thessaloniki (North) to Chania (South) and from Corfu Island (West) to Kastellorizo Island (East) travelling to filming locations in the mainland and the islands has never been so easy.

The general policy in Greece when filming on the ground is that any audiovisual work (feature, documentary, commercial, TV series, animation, student film etc.) can be produced as long as all required filming permits are secured in time and all measures of safety and security are undertaken.

We strongly advise international productions to start scouting and connect with Greek film professionals (producers, location managers, production managers, fixers etc.) as early as possible in pre-production, particularly if these projects include demanding scenes.

Filming permits are issued by archaeological, municipal, police, port, military, and other competent authorities and relevant ministries. There is no central nationwide body responsible for issuing filming permits. The application and issuing procedures and the fees vary depending on location.

Archaeological sites and monuments are of high demand and subject to availability. Therefore, we strongly recommend that you apply at the competent authorities of the Ministry of Culture at least one month prior to filming. You need the expertise of Greek producers and location managers to handle these permits.
